

ELLSWORTH AND COMPANION FOUND AT LITTLE AMERICA BY RESCUE SHIP; ALMOST FORCED TO LIVE ON EMERGENCY FOOD

Famed American Explorer Has Slight Cold, But Hollick-Kenyon, Canadian Pilot, Is In Good Health—Two Had Run Out of Fuel 20 Miles From Byrd's Base

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 17—Almost given up for lost by an anxious world, Lincoln Ellsworth, American explorer, and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, Canadian pilot, were found at Little America, Admiral Richard E. Byrd's base, according to a 1300-mile radio message revealed today.

Almost forced to exist on emergency food for nearly two months on the South Polar ice, Ellsworth and his pilot were found in good spirits and fair health by the royal rescue ship "Discoverer II."

Ellsworth is suffering from a slight cold, but Kenyon, his pilot, is well.

"On our first arrival in the Bay of Whales, an orange-colored cloth (there was some question about this word) and tent was observed on the barrier face," the message said.

"A rocket was fired from the ship and was not answered. A moth (presumably a moth plane) flew to Little America, five miles distant. Kenyon waved and a parachute of food was dropped with letters. They were received aboard the ship at 12.55 a. m., January 16, and Ellsworth was suffering from a slight cold."

The airmen state "that they ran out of fuel 20 miles from Little America on the bearing of 165 degrees sledged. Kenyon is very fit."

The explorers were not heard from since shortly after taking off November 23 on a flight to the Antarctic from the Dundee Island base to the Ross Sea.

The pair could not communicate with the outside world because of the failure of their transmitter and radio. They waited at Admiral Byrd's base hoping a rescue party would be successful.

LONDON, Jan. 17—(INS)—Lincoln Ellsworth and his pilot, missing since they started a trans-Antarctic flight November 23, are "alive and well," the Australian research ship, Discoverer II, radioed to the Colonial Office today.

This message followed yesterday's from the master of the rescue vessel, which said an airplane had been sighted at Little America and a man was seen at the Bay of Whales.

The Discoverer II is now understood by the Colonial Office to be attempting to land a party to bring Ellsworth, noted American explorer, and his Canadian pilot, Herbert Hollick Kenyon, aboard ship.

The London committee of the Discoverer, with the co-operation of the Colonial Ministry, had been trying for 24 hours to communicate again with the master of the ship and secure more details of the finding, since part of yesterday's message was garbled. Nothing further was heard, however, until the news crackled out of the South Polar regions at 10.30 this morning.

Ellsworth and his pilot had a fairly abundant supply of rations when they set forth on their flight, but the long silence of their radio caused hope almost to be abandoned for their rescue. Even yesterday's message from the Discoverer II left the doubt that the plane seen might have been one abandoned by Admiral Byrd.

The Discoverer II arrived at the Bay of Whales Wednesday.

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Jan. 17—The male members of the Cornwells Parent-Teacher Association demonstrated their ability to conduct a meeting, present a program, and serve refreshments, last evening, when at the monthly meeting of the association a "Dad's Night" occurred.

The men of the organization took full charge of business proceedings, substituting as officers; and then showed the women how to stage a fine entertainment program.

During the course of business, Samuel K. Faust, superintendent of the township schools, and chairman of the study group, announced the first study group meeting will be January 28th. The general theme of these meetings is to be "The Progressive Home," and the first subject will be "Founding a Family." There will be six or eight sessions. A motion was passed to invite the Bucks County Council of the P. T. A. to hold its Spring assembly at the local school in April. The attendance banner was presented to Miss Cecelia Snyder's room.

The entertainment included: three groups of selections by Bristol Glee Club; two short sketches by men of the faculty; demonstration in improvised first aid by Boy Scout Troop No. 1, of Cornwells Heights; and Scotch songs by Robert Mudie, Andalusia. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

Reprieve News Brings Them Joy

With the granting of a 30-day reprieve to Bruno Hauptmann, hope springs anew for Mrs. Hauptmann, shown embracing her 3-year-old son Manfred at Trenton.

HAUPTMANN TO DIE IN MARCH, IF NOT CLEARED

Remains Adamant Within Day of His Scheduled Execution

CRITICIZE GOVERNOR

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 17—(INS)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will die in the electric chair the week of March 16 for the murder of the Lindbergh baby unless in the meantime the defense digs up evidence that will clear him of "the crime of the century."

The thirty-day reprieve granted Hauptmann by Governor Harold G. Hoffman means that the condemned man actually will not be executed for at least eight weeks. When the stay elapses, he will be resented and four weeks more must then intervene before death is imposed.

What prompted Governor Hoffman to grant Hauptmann the stay of execution, scheduled to have taken place at 8 o'clock tonight, is a matter of conjecture. The Governor himself gave only the vague assertion that he gave the stay "for divers reasons." He refused to elaborate on this statement.

Whether he made a last minute appeal to Hauptmann's wife, Anna, to induce the condemned man to make a confession was a highly debatable topic today. The Governor would not confirm this report and neither would Mrs. Hauptmann. But the fact remained that Hoffman and the prisoner's wife held a conference before Mrs. Hauptmann paid what she feared might be her last visit to her husband in the State Prison.

Hauptmann is said to have told his wife: "Anna, I have nothing to tell that I have not already said. I am an innocent man."

The Governor is understood to have been impressed by Hauptmann's insistence that he was innocent in the face of the fact that he had only a little more than twenty-four hours yet to live.

So the Governor asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz for a legal opinion as to his (Hoffman's) right to grant a reprieve. The attorney general said he would not oppose one reprieve but indicated he would object strenuously to any further leniency.

Governor Hoffman then announced the thirty-day reprieve.

Hardly had the newspaper "extras" reached the streets than the Governor

SLOW SPEED SEASON
OPENS FOR MOTORIST

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17—Slippery highways, fog and early darkness are three good reasons for reducing car speeds at this season of the year. Secretary of Revenue, advised motorists today in urging greater caution on the highways.

Speeds ordinarily safe may become extremely dangerous under unfavorable conditions, he said, adding that it is impossible for anyone to define a truly "safe speed." In terms of miles per hour, as applicable to a passenger car, maximum speed limits (subject to reduction when conditions are:

Forty miles per hour on the highway, ten miles per hour when passing a safety zone when street car is discharging passengers, fifteen miles per hour when passing a school during recess or opening or closing hours, twenty miles per hour at intersections when view is not clear for 200 feet each way when within 50 feet of the intersection.

FINAL DIGEST POLL AGAINST THE NEW DEAL

More Than Three of Every Five Voters Oppose Roosevelt's Policy

GREAT PUBLIC INTEREST

More than three of every five voters are opposed to the New Deal according to the final report of The Literary Digest's nationwide poll, which is tabulated in the current issue of the magazine.

A grand total of 1,907,681 ballots are reported received of which 37.34 per cent. voted "yes" and 62.66 per cent. voted "no" in answer to the question: "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt 'New Deal' to date?"

The tally shows a complete count of 1,195,313 voters opposed to the New Deal while 712,368 cast affirmative votes, making a majority of 482,945 against the Administration's acts and policies.

Utah and eleven southern and border States gave a final verdict in favor of the New Deal, while the other thirty-six States register majorities against it.

A possibly close vote is indicated in only five States and all others give over a 55 per cent. majority for or against the New Deal.

Twenty-two States representing more than half the population of the United States and casting 280 of the 351 electoral votes give a final majority of more than 60 per cent. against the New Deal in the poll. Eight States, all in the south and representing 96 electoral votes, cast approximately the same ratio in support of the Administration's policies.

The balloting in support of the New Deal has shown a steady decline each week since the first report of the poll was published.

In a similar poll conducted by The Literary Digest eighteen months ago "to practically the same list of names," the final return then was 61.15 per cent. in support of the New Deal which renders the outcome of the present referendum virtually a complete reversal of public opinion as gauged by unofficial referendums.

The heaviest negative vote of the country as a section is registered by New England where the anti-New Deal vote is 77.98 per cent. of the total.

Next heaviest in the balloting against the Administration's policies is the Middle Atlantic group, from New York to West Virginia, where the New Deal opposition is shown polling a 68.39 per cent. vote.

The Middle Western States in the farm belt indicate a ratio approximately the same as the nation at large, 3 to 2 against.

The Rocky Mountain States show a final vote also of 3 to 2 opposed and the three States on the Pacific Coast total 58.94 per cent. against the New Deal.

"The Country's answer to the question what it thinks of the New Deal today is supplied in the final report of The Literary Digest's great 1935-'36 poll," the magazine states in its current issue.

"The intense, country-wide interest in this latest Literary Digest test of public sentiment is emphasized by the hearty response from every State, every city and town, and every rural district.

"More than 1,907,000 voters, representing a huge cross-section of America, join in giving the verdict on New Deal acts and policies.

"A national jury weighing the question propounded by The Literary Digest, they recorded their opinions by secret post-card ballot.

Condon In Panama

(Copyright by I. N. S.)

Colon, Panama, Jan. 17—Dr. John F. Condon arrived in Panama today with an air of complete imperturbability, but from employees of the crew of the Grace liner, Santa Rita, who spent a week at sea with him, it was learned that "Jafsie" was terribly "upset" by the news of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's reprieve. Word of Governor Harold Hoffman's action reached Dr. Condon in the Caribbean at 11 o'clock last night.

Dr. Condon went immediately to his cabin. When he was shown a newspaper dispatch telling of Hauptmann's reprieve he read the story and handed it back without a word. But from those who made the voyage with him it was learned that Dr. Condon talked freely about the Hauptmann case.

He re-informed that Hauptmann was guilty and that he did not deserve any mercy. Dr. Condon's daughter, Mrs. Myra Hacker, helped him into his cabin, and said they expected to visit friends and did not reveal whether they will stay aboard the ship after it passes through the Canal for a South American cruise.

The Fascist press indicated that the way has now been cleared for a wedge to drive for Jijiga and Harar.

Isaac Richards Sanders, Haddonfield, Accused of Robbing Feasterville House

ESCAPES AMID GUN-FIRE

Captured Three Hours Later At Home of His Sister

The disposition of a pet monkey to attack strangers gave police a clue which resulted in the capture of a man charged with robbing the home of Louis Meyers, Feasterville, early yesterday. The alleged robber, Isaac Richards Sanders, 20, formerly employed at the Meyers home was taken into custody in Camden, late yesterday. He escaped from the police amid gunfire, only to be caught three hours later at the home of his sister in Haddonfield, N. J.

While six persons were asleep in the Meyers house the place was entered yesterday sometime between Wednesday midnight and six a. m. The place was robbed of money, household goods and an automobile was taken.

At Southampton, several miles distant, at the Gravel Hill tap room operated by Charles A. Seitter, burglars also paid a visit and robbed the place of money, liquor, cigars and cigarettes.

State Troopers Strickland and Edwards of the Doylestown sub-station of State Police and County Detective Anthony Russo, of Bristol, were notified of the robberies and started an investigation.

Down the Meyers' cellar was a pet monkey on a chain. The burglars entering the Meyers house gathered up loot including two shotguns, one of 16 and one of 12 gauge, double barrel, valued at $100; three revolvers, electric drill and then going to the garage stole a new Ford 1936 coupe. The keys for the car were taken from the pants pocket of Mr. Meyers.

All telephone and electric light wires were cut in the cellar near where the monkey was chained.

When the officers entered the cellar to look at the cut wires, the monkey made a vicious attack at them. Right then and there the officers decided that apparently the person or persons who had cut the wires were on friendly terms with the monkey, or those wires would never have been cut.

Questioning developed the fact that one Isaac Richards Sanders, 20, Haddonfield, N. J., had worked at the Meyers place about two months ago. Police at once began to hunt for Sanders. He was found at a garage in Camden, N. J., yesterday afternoon. Sanders refused to talk until later Camden detectives found the Meyers car in an alley. It is also stated by the police that they learned that Sanders is a member of a gang known in Camden as the "Forty Thieves." Sanders was taken to Haddonfield and showed the police where the loot taken from the Meyers house could be found.

Police and Sanders then returned to the City Hall at Camden, where the prisoner signed a waiver, agreeing to return to Pennsylvania with State Troopers and Detective Russo. As the State Troopers, Detective Russo and Camden detectives were about to put Sanders in a car to return to Pennsylvania, he made a wild dash into the crowded street. Officers fired several shots, but Sanders made good his escape. Officers immediately went to the home of Sanders' sister in Haddonfield and watched for the fugitive's return. He was caught there about three hours after his escape. He was immediately handcuffed and taken to Doylestown where he will be placed on trial today.

TUGWELL AND HOPKINS

By refusing their proffered resignations, President Roosevelt stands pat behind Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell and Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins. No changes here, notwithstanding the arrows of political attack aimed at these two main targets!

Mr. Roosevelt is said to wish to avoid the exodus of more high New Dealers, on the eve of the presidential campaign. That may be best from his standpoint, considering the magnitude of the work in the hands of both men and now irrevocably in advanced stages.

But it will remain legitimate politics to raise a sharp question whether Tugwell—prone as he is to talk "parlor socialism" in a silly fashion—disposed besides to burst into speech on the finance and politics with which he has no official concern—should have been trusted with spending about half a billion on the doubtful scheme of moving thousands of farmers from poor to better lands. Rural resettlement has become Tugwell's job.

After the fight which gave him special title and salary as under-secretary of agriculture, the plan which contemplated his serving as the first and close assistant of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace didn't work out. That arrangement didn't please Wallace. In many respects, Tugwell has failed to suit his New Deal associates, thereby much suiting the New Deal's critics.

The political issue also is fairly drawn in the Hopkins case. His origin and viewpoint as a social worker indicate that, though his intentions be the best, and his course in office clean, his preparation is not adequate for handling the largest sums ever voted by congress at single times and placed, for both allotments and spending, largely in the hands of one man.

ANDREW JACKSON ROOSEVELT

In likening himself to Andrew Jackson, who, he seems to think, was afflicted by boils in the shape of "interests," Franklin D. Roosevelt is developing "persecution" hallucinations that will cost him thousands of votes. People are not attracted to a politician who pities himself publicly.

This form of rabble-rousing is so ancient that it will have merely a negative result even though all the radio stations in the land are commandeered for its 1936 dissemination.

The opposition to Roosevelt—and it is mounting daily—is based on his deviation from the 1932 Democratic platform. If it is "selfishness" and "greed" that is attacking him, it logically follows that it must have been "selfishness" and "greed" that wrote the Democratic platform in 1932 and nominated the peerless leader of the downtrodden to run for president on it.

HOLLYWOOD—These restless feet of Fred Astaire's may carry him all over the world, as he plans, but his permanent home will be California.

The dancing star has succumbed to the climate out here, and what goes with it, and is building a home in Beverly Hills. If everything goes well, it may be ready for occupancy when Mrs. Astaire comes out of the hospital with the baby, which is expected in February.

Here's an odd one. When "Cracker" Henderson marries Mae West's stand-in, Helen Holbrook, the bride will be attended by Mrs. Don Hall, who is the wife of George Raft's stand-in, and the best man will be James Fuller, stand-in for Sir Guy Standing.

Harry Green tells the story as true, and, anyway, it appeals to me as an amusing example of child psychology. The Green youngster, it seems, had a favorite water turtle, and, one morning, it appeared to be dying. Harry tried to think of a way to quiet the youngster's sobs. He promised a state funeral for the turtle and, letting his imagination go, pictured the colored pasteboard coffin with cotton in the bottom, the grave under a tree in the back yard, the ceremony with all the neighborhood kids present.

In the meanwhile, someone discovered that the turtle had recuperated and was swimming around perkily.

"You see!" exclaimed Harry, "you don't have to worry any more."

The youngster surveyed his rejuvenated pet seriously.

"You mean we won't get to have any funeral?" he asked.

"No," beamed Harry, "the turtle's well again!"

"Well, then," said the youngster, "let's kill it!"

The cost of Carole Lombard's clothes in "Spinster Dinner" shows that Universal is being no pikier on this picture. The blonde star is to have 15 changes, and the first gown cost $1,250. By special arrangement, Travis Banton is designing the whole wardrobe, and it will set the Laemmle lot back $15,000. Or, as someone wise-cracked, almost the cost of a serial.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Robert Andrews, Boston: I'm afraid your chances of seeing Billie Dove on the screen again are very small. She lives at the beach with her husband, Bob Kenaston, and their little boy, and seems perfectly content to let the Hollywood parade pass by.

There's been a business split between James Timony and Boris Petroff, both close friends of Mae West and recently associated in the operation of the Hollywood theater. Petroff is withdrawing from the organization, rumor says, to produce independently a show called "Murder With Music." He and Harry Ruskin are co-authors of the piece and they are said to be after Carl Brisson to take the starring role.

"HIGH SCHOOL TRAGEDY"

by MAXINE CANTY

SYNOPSIS

Julie Martin, at 17, becomes an "inside" observer of the police investigation of the murder of her former French teacher, the pretty Constance ("Connie") Sinclair, who had been shot dead in her apartment by a party thus far unknown. Julie is on the "inside" because after school hours she is office assistant to Principal Perkins and the latter has detailed her as stenographer for Police Inspector O'Brien, who is busy examining suspects and others. Among those questioned, and wanted for questioning, are Julie herself and her boyfriend, Dicky Ward, who was with her when she returned a pen to "Connie" a few hours before the tragedy; Mrs. Sardon, manager of the apartment house in which "Connie" was killed; Principal Perkins; Melvin Wright, the school's "problem boy"; Hym, a Filipino janitor, who had been charged for insolence to "Connie" and who was missing since her death; Bruce Lloyd, her former fiancé, who refuses to say where he was on the murder night; and George Carrington, also reported to be a former suitor, who is now married. The latter seems to have a perfect alibi for the fatal night but he admits to the police that his wife has been missing since that evening. Julie's father has become counsel for Lloyd. The authorities are anxious to find Mrs. Carrington. Meanwhile Inspector O'Brien urges Julie to keep her eyes and ears open but her mouth shut tight. He appoints her his confidential assistant at the high school, laughingly calling himself "Sherlock Holmes" O'Brien and Julie, the "charming Miss Watson." Dicky Ward is jealous of the handsome Bruce Lloyd, who is invited to the Martin home for dinner, immediately after which all present are stirred by the news that Hym the Filipino has been found in San Francisco. Julie continues her own "inside" story:

CHAPTER IX

The newspapers made a lot of Hym's story. They almost convicted him on the spot. Part of the attitude, I suppose, can be attributed to the general prejudice against Orientals, part of it to the natural distrust of other races and people whose skins are of another color. Most of it probably was because of some mysterious cult murders that had recently taken place near Stockholm, committed by Filipinos; in one of these messy affairs a woman was buried alive. All that was recalled by the press as Hym's story was told.

Hym was a harmless, insignificant little man of a deep tan hue, a negroid, flat nose, and small, hard eyes. The reporter who described him said that the Oriental never looked one in the eye, that he kept his head down most of the time, or cringed in his chair, and was reluctant to answer questions. He spoke very good English, however, and seemed proud of his American education. It was clear that he resented any assumption of superiority on the part of his white inquirers.

Along with this last remark went a recounting of Mrs. Sardon's story of Miss Sinclair's reporting him to her for impertinence, and her giving him notice to leave the first of November. Hym's story really started there. It seems he determined to call on Miss Sinclair the night of October 20th, asking her to do what she could to reinstate him with Mrs. Sardon. He seemed to be desperately in need of retaining his job. He noddled up the back service stairs to the second floor in his soft, leather slippers. As he opened the door leading on to the floor, he saw Miss Sass and Miss Whelton standing in Miss Sinclair's doorway. So he backed out onto the landing and returned to the basement. Three times he tried to see her, but she seemed to have company each time. The last time he waited on the landing a moment, but hearing no voices, approached her door.

"What time was this?" the Inspector had asked.
"Nine-fifteen—no, nine-thirty."
"All right, then what?"
"I knock."
"Yes."
"No answer."
"Then what?"
"I knock again."

"Yes?"
"Still no answer. But there is a light. I know she is there."
"So what did you do?"
"Well, I am afraid that Mrs. Sardon heard me and came up. She heard everything, that woman. I fear if she sees me she'll fire me that night."
"So what did you do?"
"I try the door. It is unlocked. I push on it a little, saying 'Miss Sinclair' as I do it."
"Did she answer?"
"No. She is dead."

From there on the police had to work hard to get more information. But they finally succeeded in establishing Hym's knowledge of some of the details they themselves had

Two bits of information were established. She was dead by 9:30. The other was that Hym was sure he had left the door half ajar. Yet it was closed when the police arrived. The question uppermost in their minds was: Who had closed that door?

The family did not have much opportunity to discuss the new angles of the case brought up by Hym's testimony because Allen was getting so upset and nervous over the whole affair that Mother forbade any talk about it. Dad and I knew she meant it, too. We had a few minutes, however, after Allen went to the library the evening fol-found when they examined the room. The paper I read gave a very vivid picture of the Filipino's black eyes peering around the half-opened door and what he said his shocked vision recorded.

A soft green reading lamp lighted the scene. Directly in line with his gaze was the desk on which it stood and before which Miss Sinclair was sitting when she was shot. She was wearing the jade-green pajamas as described before, embroidered in a gold, with a gold-colored Mandarin coat over them. She had slumped forward over the desk, her arms sprawled across it, her face turned toward Hym, half-covered by her bright hair. The front of the pajamas was stained with blood, and her stare was that of death.

The Filipino boy did not move or cry; he just stood there, in the same position Connie's murderer must have stood, while the meaning of what he saw sunk into his mind. Then he turned, slipped noiselessly down the stairs, got shoes, hat, and coat, and left for San Francisco.

"Why didn't you call Mrs. Sardon?"

"I was afraid."
"Of what?"
"White men always suspect Filipinos. I go away. I have nothing to do with it."

"Did you call us from San Francisco?"
"No."
Hours of harsh questioning could elicit nothing more that night. He insisted upon his own innocence, reiterating that he did not make the telephone call from San Francisco. He did not remember whether Miss Sinclair was holding a fountain pen or not. He had heard no unusual noise previous to his call upon her. The idea that the murderer might have been there just before he arrived, or even might have been concealing himself or herself in the apartment during his few moments there, seemed to frighten him.

FIRE LOSS HERE IN 1935 LOWEST FOR MANY YEARS, ACCORDING TO ANNUAL REPORT JUST FILED

Loss to Property Totalled $2,019.32 and Contents $726.65 —
Department Answered 103 Calls and Rendered Various Kinds of Services — Rescued Two Cats

Bristol's fire loss in 1935 was the lowest for many years, when it totaled only $2,745.97, according to the annual report of Acting Chief, Clifford Hagerman. A comparison of the losses for each of the past 10 years shows that the loss in 1935 was the lowest during that period of time, at least. The next smallest loss was recorded in 1932 when it totaled $5,060.

The Bristol Consolidated Fire Department in 1935 answered 103 calls which was the smallest number of calls since 1926, when the total was 83.

The loss last year was divided between property and contents with $2,019.32 for the former and $726.65 for the latter.

GOVERNOR AND ATTORNEY-GENERAL AGREE ON HAUPTMANN REPRIEVE

was subjected to a barrage of criticism. The Trenton Evening Times ran a first page editorial captioned "Impeach Hoffman" in which it was charged that Hoffman "had betrayed the interests of justice."

"Harold G. Hoffman already stands impeached before the bar of public opinion," said the Trenton Times editorial. "The Legislature is challenged to lend legal substance to a condition that has become intolerable for all thinking citizens."

"Only by means of Hoffman's elimination can the public affairs of New Jersey be restored to a status of mental and moral balance and re-established on a plane of decency."

The New Jersey legislature will meet next Monday night and it is expected certain members will express their views on the Hauptmann case in no uncertain terms.

Gov. Hoffman is a Republican. Both the House and the Senate have Republican majorities. Any effort to impeach Governor Hoffman would no doubt be rebuffed unless the insurgents headed by the "Clean Government League of Essex County," led by Senator Lester H. Clee, wanted to oppose the Governor for other political reasons.

The Hoffman organization controls the Senate but the Clee faction controls the House as far as the leader and the speaker is concerned. Up to date the Clee faction has been "laying off" the Hauptmann case.

Governor Hoffman's failure to disclose any new evidence in the case as justifying the reprieve has been the major factor in bringing down criticism upon his head.

Hoffman told the press that fourteen reprieves from six different governors since 1906 provided, to his mind, executive precedent in granting the stay of Hauptmann.

The reprieve was to be formally signed by the Governor today. It will read:

"Pursuant to the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution of this State I do hereby grant you a reprieve of the sentence of death heretofore imposed upon you, and to be carried out during the week beginning the twelfth of January, 1936, to the 15th day of February, A. D. 1936. In testimony thereof I have hereunto set my hand and privy seal this 16th day of January, A. D. 1936."

Hauptmann was perhaps the least excited man in Trenton when the news spread that the thirty day stay had been granted. Nearly 1,000 persons had assembled in the vicinity of the State Prison when Hauptmann's chief counsel, C. Lloyd Fisher and Defense Attorney Frederick A. Pope went there to break the glad tidings to the condemned man.

The prisoner quietly thanks his lawyers, saying:

"I knew I would be reprieved. I am an innocent man. They could not have done otherwise."

Hauptmann voiced his praise of Governor Hoffman and renewed his request to see the Governor. The Governor indicated, however, that he would make no more secret trips to the prison to talk to Hauptmann.

Under the law, Justice Thomas W. Trenchard will re-sentence Hauptmann at the expiration of the thirty-day reprieve. He may set the date of execution at not less than four weeks or more than eight weeks from the time he acts.

Mrs. Hauptmann was almost overcome with emotion when she learned of the reprieve. She had just about given up hope of a stay. She was prepared for the worst. She had told her husband so.

"God be thanked," she said, "I somehow felt Richard would not die. Richard felt so, too. Our faith has been rewarded."

She went to the lobby of the hotel where she is stopping and with her two-year-old baby, Manfred, posed for pictures.

Morrisville Bank To Elect New Officials

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 17.—New officers will be elected by the Board of Directors of the Morrisville bank next Monday at a meeting to be held in the banking house. Directors re-elected at the annual stockholders' meeting were: George W. Balderston, Dr. Frederic Collier, Fred H. Ewald, Raymond W. Johnson, Karl C. King, E. H. Lovett, Arthur E. Moon, Frank C. Pryor, Thomas B. Stockham, and Calvin Tomlinson. J. Lawrence Grim, a local attorney, was elected a director to fill the vacancy caused by the death of L. A. Howell.

One of the most active organizations in the borough is the Morrisville Italian Women's Club which meets twice each month in Manor Park. One meeting is for business and the other for social. At the latter gathering sewing is done for deserving women of the neighborhood. At Christmas time the members of this organization sent a box of home made cakes, fruit, nuts and candy to the 12 Morrisville people who are at the Bucks County Home. There are ten men and two women from this borough residing there.

The organization also purchased coal for families in need and could not get State relief, groceries and wearing apparel for others and $5 was donated to the Italian Red Cross. Another $5 was donated to purchase manuals for a new troop of Boy Scouts in Manor Park. The club is sponsoring a class in home hygiene consisting of 20 women and taught by Miss Laura Koch, the community nurse. The women of the club have contributed money to purchase the supplies used by this class. The club also pledged $50 toward the cost of a new automobile for the Red Cross community nurse.

For the purpose of raising funds for the Morrisville Auxiliary to the McKinley Hospital, a covered dish luncheon will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Beadle, 238 Stockham avenue, Tuesday, January 21, at 1 o'clock. Plans for this affair were made at a meeting of the organization held at the home of Mrs. Oscar Fennimore, Mrs. William Carman was assistant hostess at the meeting.

The February meeting of the auxiliary will be at the home of Mrs. Isaac Tetener, 429 West Bridge street, and Mrs. Thomas Purcell will assist.

CARDINAL AND GRAY TO PLAY PHILA. FIVE HERE

(By Jack Orr)

The Cardinal and Gray of Bristol High will be after their fourth consecutive win in the same number of starts, when they combat a strong Banks Business College quintet on the local high school court tonight.

Tonight's battle will be the first critical contest of the year for the locals. The Bankers are having a fine season and should conquer the high-flying Bunnies and give them their first defeat of the year. The visiting unit will line up with Newman and Koshlund, forwards; Orr at center; and two big guards, Kuman and Kelly.

Bristol's line-up will be: Phil Carnvale and Punk Zefferi at up-front spots; Charlie Hughes at the pivot post; and Nick Huffnell and Tom Proffy in the back court.

The Junior Varsity will combat St. Francis School in the opener. The Little Bunnies lost their first ball game Wednesday evening when the strong Sacred Heart School sent them down to the count of 19-16.

The bar shoot will be the attraction at the half time. Last year's champion, Phil Carnvale, will once more be in the contest. The height the champion cleared last year was 8 feet 2 inches.

MOOSE FIVE CLIMB INTO SECOND PLACE IN LEAGUE

The largest crowd of the season to witness a Bristol Amateur League basketball game was almost in hysterics last night as the Moose five climbed into second place in the league standing by bowling over the Third Ward Rangers, 30-25, in a wild tilt.

It was the playing of "Gige" Dougherty that led the way to the Moose triumph. It wasn't Dougherty's scoring, but his defensive work and ability to take the ball up the floor into the Rangers' territory that paved the road for victory. Dougherty was credited with the five most important assists of the tilt in the second half which stopped dead a Third Ward rally and led to the scoring of Moose points. Dougherty was injured in the first half and played the entire second half with his shoulder taped.

"Toke" Lawrence and "Stoney" Wilson took advantage of Dougherty's floor-work to score 11 and 13 points, respectively. Twelve of the winners' 14 points in the second half were scored by these two peerless players.

"Deto" Borneice and "Tommy" Watts did some thrilling shooting for the Pikers to keep them in the tilt throughout the first half. The Pikers were held by Green but continually broke loose to score 19 points.

The Moose win changed the entire complexion of the league. The Pikers dropped to third place after losing the circuit for most of the way. The Moose is one-half game behind the league-leading Odd Fellows who have their first-half schedule complete. The Odd Fellows and Rangers still have an untied tilt scheduled.

Will She Be Dodger Leader?

Judge Steve McKeever, 84, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is expected to retire from his job and rumor has it that his daughter, Mrs. James Mulvey (above), an ardent horsewoman, will take over the reins. What's more, many believe she can do much to bring order out of chaos in the stormy ranks of the Brooklyn team.

"MULES" WIN THREE FROM CROYDON 'SMOKE-EATERS' ODD FELLOWS TIGHTEN GRIP ON LEAGUE HONORS

The "Mules" defeated the Croydon smoke-eaters bowlers three points. McGee rolled 499 for the "Mules." Bachner was Croydon's best, getting a 528 total.

In the American League Rohm and Haas and the Elks split, each winning two points. Angus crashed the ten pins for a 561 total for the chemists while Channcey Stoneback rolled 510 for the Elks.

In the National League, Schmidt's Violets won all four points from Asco. Crowthers rolled 498 for the Violets and Whyno rolled 477 for Asco.

The Odd Fellows practically assured themselves of the first half championship of the Bristol Amateur Basketball League last night when they took the Hibernians into camp in a thrilling and exciting match on the Italian Mutual Aid floor. Final tabulations were: Odd Fellows, 27; Hibernians, 22.

The Hibs shot in hard luck all night. Time and time again the sphere would hit the rim and then bounce out. Eddie Roe seemed to be the chief offender of these shots. The baskets seemed to have a lid on for the Hibernian sharp-shooter. If one-half of those shots thrown by Roe which hit the rim would have dropped into the net, the Hibs would have won easily.

The Corson streeters deserve plenty of credit for the uphill battle they gave the Oddies. The Black and White team amassed a thirteen point lead in the first session by holding the Big Green scoreless. For four minutes of the second quarter the Hibs continued to be the scoreless wonders. It wasn't until Ad Roe put one in from beyond the center mark that the Hibs began to find the range of the basket.

Roe's basket was the sign of the uphill battle to be fought by the Greens. And what a battle it turned out to be! Little by little that early advantage of the Oddies was being shaved down until the third quarter ended with the count, 21-17. Three "sleepers" by "Jimmy" Scott put the game on the ice of the Hermann proteges. On two occasions, Scott took passes from Danny Hines to score while waiting under the basket and on the other turn Weidman did the assisting.

Ad Roe turned in the high scoring mark of the game with nine points. Scott and Frankovic of the winners made eight each. Despite the fastness of the game, only seven fouls were called. The Odd Fellows had six called while the Hibernians committed but one.

The worst that the Odd Fellows could get out of the league standing now is a triple tie. They have but one game remaining to be played and that is with the St. Ann's quintet which hasn't won a game but is always threatening.

"Now, the last of the jurors has been heard from, and, in this, the ninth and final report of the poll, the verdict is returned.

"The verdict will be considered by many a startling reversal in public sentiment since 1934. The poll will be challenged and indorsed, denounced and praised, according to view-point. "Scores of thousands who applauded the 1934 verdict on New Deal policies will call it 'unfair' or 'partisan.' Other scores of thousands who questioned the 1934 poll will hail it as correct.

"There are the figures, and, whatever one may think of the poll, The Literary Digest believes it to be a true reflection of public sentiment, since it was conducted in precisely the same manner as that of 1934, which gave the New Deal a majority of 61.15, and also like the great election polls of previous years.

"An outstanding feature of this poll is the enormous public interest as indicated by the greatly increased response.

"In the present poll The Literary Digest has received 1,907,681 ballots, an increase of 58.36 per cent. over the number cast in 1934 from virtually the same list of names.

"While the final report contains nearly 220,000 more votes than were tabulated last week, the percentages remain for the most part, substantially the same.

"The 62.66 'no' majority is an increase of about three-fourths of one per cent. since last week, and of about 9 per cent. since the first poll report.

"Some critics of the poll question its accuracy on the ground that more votes, proportionately, have come from Republicans than from Democrats.

"Pointing out that in the 1932 Presidential election there were 57.32 per cent. Democratic votes, as compared with 39.59 Republican votes and 3.09 for minor candidates, they argue that this poll should reflect Republican and Democratic votes in the same proportions.

"This criticism is not new. It was expressed in The Literary Digest poll of 1932 on the basis of the Pres-

Track Stars of 1935

By BURNLEY

This being an Olympic year, all track meets take on an added interest, with the big games as an incentive for all the competing athletes.

The indoor track season is scheduled to get under way in the East this week, with such tried and true performers as Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venze, Glen Dawson and Charles Hornbostel back on the boards.

Last year, the track game's leading performers were those of two dark shadows, Eulace Peacock and Jesse Owens, and that sensational vaunter wearing Eli's blue, Keith Brown.

Between them, Peacock and Owens smashed a great many marks and captured most of the headlines during 1935.

Owens, the Buckeye Bullet, turned in what was probably the greatest single performance in track history last spring when he tied the world's record of 9.4 for the 100-yard dash, shattered the 220 mark in 20.3, broke the 220-yard low hurdles record with time of 22.6, and smashed the broad jump standard by leaping 26 feet 8 1/2 inches.

Jesse massed his peak by the time the 1935 nationals were held and Peacock snatched most of the laurels, but the Ohio State speedster was still the most spectacular track performer of 1935.

dential election vote of 1928.

"But its validity may be judged by the fact that, despite the seeming disproportion in votes, The Literary Digest poll of 1932 forecast the majority for Mr. Roosevelt within three-quarters of one per cent."

The Literary Digest announces that next week it will publish the results of a separate poll of the magazine's subscribers on the same question.

The program was in charge of the art section of which Miss Anna S. Cliff is chairwoman. Miss Cliff introduced Mr. Cooper, who prefaced his address by asking for a definition of "time" in not more than two sentences.

A variety of watches were shown, two of these being at least 100 years old. One which proved particularly interesting featured a lever which when operated would start the tiny music box inside. This watch also struck the hour. It was larger than the watches in use today, and about twice as thick.

Mr. Cooper told of the origin of calendars, and told much of the first watches that appeared. He informed that time can be told quite accurately by the opening and closing of certain flowers. A facsimile of an Aztec calendar made for a Lancaster watch company was shown the gathering. This calendar has been in use for 3,000 years. Sun-dials were spoken of, and two sund-glasses were displayed. It was mentioned by the speaker that no more pendulum clocks are manufactured, all present-day ones having springs. Makers of well-known clocks were mentioned; and it was also brought out that the pupils of a cat's eyes are straight up and down at noon.

A piano solo was given by Mrs. J. C. Reddie.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Paul Bennetch, president of Sorosis. Mrs. Bennetch introduced as the first speaker of the day, Mr. Marritt, Newtown, vice-chairman of the Salvation Army Maintenance Fund. Mr. Marritt told of the work of the Salvation Army, the manner in which old furniture is redeemed, and the needs for funds to carry on the work.

Signs of Welcome To Be Placed in Morrisville

It was also voted that a list of all available factory sites and buildings for industrial purposes be listed with the Chamber of Commerce so that this information may be available to anyone seeking such information.

Harry Watson and Captain Neil Nelson were elected to membership, and an effort will be made to add many more members before the annual meeting in March.

The matter of a banquet was discussed and there was considerable sentiment in favor of it. A committee consisting of Harry M. Lair, George Burger, Martin Flock and William Hoheweller was appointed to consider the matter and report at the next meeting.

The Chamber will invite all members of Common Council to attend the next meeting, as it is the desire to have the co-operation of Common Council and the Chamber of Commerce in all matters pertaining to the improvement of the borough.

A. G. VANDERBILT
ENTERS SANTA ANITA

By Lou Bindman
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(INS)—Some of the first string thoroughbreds in the A. G. Vanderbilt stable—leading racing establishment of 1935—will be seen in action during the current 55-day meeting of the Los Angeles Turf Club at the Santa Anita track in Arcadia, Cal.

The youthful sportsman's equine representatives are expected to make themselves highly prominent factors in some of the outstanding prizes to be offered at the Golden State course which operates until February 29.

In fact, if their Eastern form is any indication, the Vanderbilt horses should be in the forefront of activities and it would not be surprising if a high percentage of stake events should fall to them. It would be more surprising if the contrary were to become true in view of young Vanderbilt's sensational success last year in which he led all owners in point of money winning.

It may be argued that the greatest contributor to Vanderbilt's success was his champion colt, Discovery, head of the handicap division, without which the popular thoroughbred owner would not be at the top of the list. Discovery contributed more than $100,000 in prize money to his owner's coffers during 1935 but it nevertheless does not detract from the fact that the marvelous consistency of Vanderbilt's other horses were also major factors in the climb up the money ladder. Some of these horses, including Discovery himself, will be present at Santa Anita to try and make off with the first batch of 1936 racing prizes so as to give Vanderbilt a head start in the new year's race for money honors.

Discovery, of course, will be the stable's ace campaigner and chief reliance in contests of exceptional or outstanding importance but it isn't likely the sturdy son of Display will be allowed to start his winter campaign too early. His handlers are carefully conserving him for the big $100,000 issue in the Santa Anita Handicap for which he is nominated along with two other Vanderbilt thoroughbreds—Good Harvest and Scotch Bun. The latter two are expected to go into action earlier but Discovery will probably not be tuned up for his big engagement until shortly before it comes up for decision.

With the Vanderbilt contingent on the Pacific Coast will be Johnny Bejshak, first string rider of that stable. Bejshak, a veteran of many years riding, is a hard and classy booter, a clever judge of pace and a "money" rider. That is to say, he knows how to boot 'em in when a big prize is at stake.

Bejshak rode Discovery in all of the colt's engagements last year and is as fully acquainted with the handicap champion's habits as he is with the feel of his own boots. This combination of Bejshak and Discovery should therefore prove hard to beat. The veteran rider will be up on other Vanderbilt horses during the course of the meeting, and his presence in the saddle will undoubtedly render the mount even more dangerous than ordinarily. Bejshak has been known to win races "all by himself"—his riding being the prime factor in the triumph and the horse secondary.

Harold Appleton, Newark, N. J., passed the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. William Appleton, Maple Beach.
